HEALTH AND WELLNESS CORNER

Physical Health:

Keep Moving! Regular physical activity is crucial for maintaining a healthy body and mind. Encourage your child to engage in at least 60 minutes of physical activity every day. This can include activities like cycling, playing a sport, or even a brisk walk. Remember, staying active helps boost energy levels, improves mood, and enhances concentration.

Mental Health:

Mindfulness Matters Incorporating mindfulness exercises into daily routines can significantly reduce stress and anxiety. Our counselor, Jaswant Singh suggests starting with simple breathing exercises. Encourage your child to take deep breaths for a few minutes each day. Mindfulness not only calms the mind but also improves focus and emotional regulation.

Healthy Eating:

Balanced Diet, Balanced Life A balanced diet is the cornerstone of good health. Ensure your child's meals include a variety of fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and proteins. Limiting sugary snacks and promoting hydration by drinking plenty of water throughout the day can also make a big difference in their overall well-being.

PARENT'S GUIDE

Supporting Your Child's Education and Well-being

As parents, your role in your child's education and well-being is invaluable. Here are a few tips to help your child succeed:

1. Create a Routine: Establishing a consistent routine for homework, meals, and bedtime helps children feel secure and organized. Consistency is key to developing good habits.

2. Be Involved: Show interest in your child's school activities and academic progress. Attend parent-teacher meetings, and ask your child about their day.

3. Encourage Open Communication: Create an environment where your child feels comfortable sharing their thoughts and concerns with you. Listening to them without judgment helps build trust and strengthens your relationship.

4. Promote a Growth Mindset: Encourage your child to embrace challenges and view mistakes as opportunities to learn. A positive, growth-oriented mindset can greatly enhance their motivation and resilience.

5. Take Care of Yourself: Lastly, remember that your well-being is just as important. Taking time for self-care ensures you have the energy and patience to support your child effectively.

We hope these tips help foster a healthy and positive environment for our students and their families. Stay tuned for more health and wellness insights in our upcoming issues!
